Impact of Design Pavilion

Powered by ASID at KBIS

The Impact of Design Pavilion Powered by ASID at KBIS will feature exhibitors committed to manufacturing and supplying products that provide a demonstrated impact on human health and wellness and environmental sustainability. Design professionals rely on manufacturers and suppliers to provide innovation, cutting-edge products that align with the specifications required by credible third-party organizations.

The new 2,500-square-foot pavilion, centrally located in South Hall, focuses on the ways in which design impacts lives. Brands exhibiting within the pavilion will showcase products and services centered on health, wellness, and sustainability within the design industry.

ASID will have a hub within the pavilion to host a series of sessions that explore how design impact lives.

The ASID Pavilion will be a juried pavilion. Requirements for consideration include:

- How do you see your company fitting into the pavilion?
- Identify key elements of health, wellness, and sustainability.
- What product or service will you feature?

Standard KBIS booth rates apply.
